

Sinclair Broadcasting cannot be allowed to hijack the air waves by strong-arming its own stations into running what amounts to a political ad (thinly veiled as "news"). If this anti-Kerry documentary airs, it must at least be balanced by immediately thereafter showing another viewpoint (for example, the documentary "Going Up River").

It is not in the public interest for Sinclair to blatantly attempt to bias the presidential election with a slanted, subjective position. This is a frightening example of the media's attempt at controlling public opinion.

Please do not let this go forward.
